The Citizen.

Anniversary Sunday at Westminster Church.

Last Sunday was celebrated as the 20th anniversary of Westminster Presbyterian Church. The pastor, Rev. George A. Paull, at the morning service delivered a sermon which was of such an interesting character as to elicit many requests for its publication in full in THE CITIZEN. Agreeably therewith, it will be found on the last page of this issue.

The evening was devoted to exercises by the Sunday School. The church was filled to the doors by the parents and friends of the children, and judging from comments heard, the audience felt well repaid for sitting for an hour and a half in a rather warm room. The only address of the evening was made by the Rev. Mr. Dinsmore, Missionary of the American S. S. Union. Mr. Dinsmore was welcomed as an old acquaintance, and his remarks were listened to with close attention. All of the hymns sung during the evening were chosen from those in use by the school twenty years ago; they were sung with spirit and feeling. The most interesting feature of the entertainment was the "Light House Exercise," which possessed the charm of being a novel. Miss Edith McDowell came on the platform and gave a very pretty little introductory address, followed by a recitation.

Then came six boys each bearing a large white block on which was a letter. When these blocks were laid in order, after the recitation of appropriate scripture selections, the letters were found to form the word CHRIST on the foundation. The boys were Gilbert White, Stanley Mc Dowell, Albert Michell, Barclay Thompson, Charlie Sutton and Walter Bancroft. Bright music from the "Gospel Hymns" was interspersed among the recitations during the exercise. On the foundation was laid a large block bearing the words "Of Men," and Miss Helen Linder recited "The Tempest." When the second block, "And Light," was placed in position, a very dainty and pretty little maid, Miss Gracie Biggart recited a small verse, and when the third block, "The Life" was placed Miss Florence Newton sang very sweetly the solo "Save, Lord, or We Perish." The Light House lacked then nothing but the lamp, which was placed on top and shone through the block bearing the word "Jesus," and Arthur Russell, as the lights in the church were lowered, recited very effectively, "The Light House Keeper."

The white structure, about ten feet high was exceedingly pretty, and the motto when completed read "Jesus, the Life and Light of Men."

It was done for the children and they thoroughly enjoyed it.

Glen Ridge Club.

The children's party at the club house Wednesday evening was, as might have been expected, a howling success. There were present about thirty of the most bewitching little girls to be found in the township, and about as many more older children, with a fair assortment of fathers, and an assortment of fair mothers; a few nurse girls were thrown in for style. The show was opened by Professor Henderson, who made the youngsters open their eyes wide with wonder by his clever tricks, and wider with laughter by his inimitable Punch and Judy. Among the notable persons who desired to interview Punch, was Mr. McGinty, late of the bottom of the sea; he lived just long enough to introduce himself; Punch finished him with one blow (tumultuous applause; verdict, justifiable homicide). After Punch came a bubble blowing bout, and then ice cream, cake and baskets of candy for the little children and solid refreshments for the children from 18 years of age to 50; then with the very kind assistance of Misses Hance, Nothall and Ronget, a german was danced, and at twelve o'clock the party "went out," and the committee "thanked" goodness that was over."

A Valuable Gift.

The Bloomfield High School has been made the recipient of a valuable donation, "Scribner's Statistical Atlas of the United States, showing by Graphic Methods their Present Condition and their Political, Social and Industrial Development." The work is in folio and is arranged as follows:

Part	1.	Physical Geography,	5 maps
"	2.	Political History,	6 "
"	3.	Progress	7 "
"	4.	Population,	18 "
"	5.	Mortality,	10 "
"	6.	Education,	8 "
"	7.	Religion,	4 "
"	8.	Occupation,	8 "
"	9.	Finance & Commerce,	26 "
"	10.	Agriculture,	15 "
"	11.	Live Stock & Products,	7 "
"	12.	Manufactures	21 "
"	13.	Miscellaneous	136 "

The words "graphic methods" from the title afford the key to the form and purpose of the work. The author, Mr. F. W. Hewes, has originated and applied most successfully in the volume an extended system of carefully prepared maps, charts and diagrams, which present to the eye in a very simple and comprehensive manner the results of a detailed comparative study of the vast, but almost inaccessible, storehouse of statistics published by the National and State governments, as well as by private authorities. These statistics, unfortunately, as usually published, are of value only to the trained student, and so very largely fail of the purpose for which they were prepared. But as here interpreted and tabulated they become, even to the layman, a magazine of most valuable information in simple and impressive form. The work is thus an invaluable auxiliary in the study of geography, history and general economical development of our country. As such its value to the school will be immediate and constant. In its daily usefulness the volume will serve appropriately as a reminder of the useful life in school of Inez Hewes, as a memorial of whom it has been presented to the school by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hewes.

It may not be inappropriate to mention here that in the volume, "The American Railway," recently issued by Scribners, Mr. Hewes contributes the concluding chapter. In this he presents by the same method used in the Statistical Atlas, a series of maps and charts portraying the salient features as to the growth, location, traffic, management and financial condition of the railway systems of the country. The value of this contribution may be sufficiently indicated by the fact that it closes a detailed discussion. The several chapters of which were prepared by trained railroad experts.

The school has also during the past week received by donation from Mr. Thos. Oakes a general Atlas of the world. The volume has proven a very useful addition to the equipment of the school. A specially valuable feature of the work, in addition to the numerous maps, is a carefully prepared sketch of the territorial and political history of the United States. The plan on which this historical outline is developed is quite independent of the scheme followed in the Statistical Atlas, serving thereby to enhance essentially the value of each work.

Exempt Firemen.

The time is drawing near when a number of the members of the Bloomfield Fire Department will have completed their seven years service and be entitled to the privileges of exempt firemen. Exemption from taxation to the amount of five hundred dollars is one of the privileges. It rests with the Township Committee to determine what percentage of service shall have been performed during the seven years to entitle a member to these privileges. The Montclair Committee has fixed the percentage at 60. In order to ascertain the standing of the members of the department, the Committee have called on Chief Engineer Johnson to furnish them with a full report giving minute details relating to each members record. Some very efficient members of the department are compelled by reason of their business to be absent from town during the day. This enforced absence tends to depreciate their record. This fact will probably receive due consideration in fixing the percentage.

Township Committee.

The Township Committee met on Monday night. Dr. Wm. H. Pierson made inquiry as to the progress of the suit between the township and the N. Y. & G. L. R. R., over the Forest avenue bridge. Dr. Pierson was informed that the case would come up at the January term of the court. Myrtle street residents wanted to know when the committee were going to complete the promised work on that street. They were told that it would have to be laid over until next spring. A delegation from the Fairview Improvement Association desired information as to what progress had been made in the Newark avenue obstruction case. The committee could give them no satisfaction, as the matter had been placed in the town counsel's hands. The delegation went home disappointed. Mr. Frank Croose complained about the bad condition of the street opposite his residence. Mr. Croose also complained that a resident of his locality had been conducting a saloon without a license for a number of years.
